Abstracts, Relating to Wills and Letters of Administration from the Private Papers of Judge Jared Landon, of Suffolk Co., Deposited with the Long Island Historical Society, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Judge Landon's papers, while mainly relating to Suffolk County, contain some references to Ulster wills, received by the Judge, while at Kingston, and letters of administration issued there on estates of intestates, residents of Ulster County. See New York Genealogical Register, 1871, pps. 186 et seq. for further reference to these papers, as well as abstracts of all entries, relating to revolutionary soldiers, very few of which, however, were Ulster people.

Abstracts of Wills and Letters of Administration, on File in the Surrogate's Office, New York City.

Abstracts of Ulster County wills have been printed in the New York Historical Society's Collections; these are, however, not only scattered through a number of volumes, but only an English translation of the Dutch records have been printed, which would have been acceptable if correct. Unfortunately, this is not the case, as hardly one of the Ulster wills have been properly copied, or translated.

INDEX OF NAMES.

Surnames have been indexed as they appear at the beginning of an instrument, as a signature at the bottom thereof, and as they are written in parish registers and public documents, quoted in the historical and genealogical notes, e. g., Mattysen under Mattysen, Tysen, Van Keulen, Van Keuren; Jansen under Vermeulen, Van Oosterhoudt, Joosten, Van Steenbergh; Roosa under Heymanse; Brinck under Lambertse and Huybertse, etc.

Children are indexed under the name of their parents, unless known by some other surname. Married daughters are indexed under the names of their husbands, as well as under the various surnames, by which their parents were known.

Baptismal names have, as a rule, been placed under English headings. Students, who are unfamiliar with Dutch nomenclature, are referred to pages 17-19.

Italics indicate a testator, or an intestate.

An asterisk (*) signifies that a name occurs more than once on a page.

Cross references are given where equivalent names are far apart, or dissimilar, or where members of the family were known by several names, as Aertsen, Van Wagenen, Jacobsen; Alsdorff, Aulsdorff; Slichtenhorst, van Sleghtenhorst.

Particular attention is called to the fact that it will not be necessary to search the entire index for various spellings of the same surname. Delamater, De Lamater, Delametter, Le Maistre, De la Maistre, will all be found under Delamater, etc., cross references under all these headings referring to the general heading.

Negroes have been indexed, by name, under a general heading.
